

Diversity and Inclusion in National Sport Organizations

Underrepresented groups: Indigenous Peoples

The 15 respondents were asked how important Aboriginal inclusion is to them. The average score was 7.1/10. Participants indicated that this score reflects the reality in Canada and that Aboriginals are an important part of the country.

The Coaching Association of Canada (CAC) asked organizations what initiatives they are currently implementing. Key initiatives include: pilot projects with Aboriginal groups, partnerships with Aboriginal sport organizations and coaching modules for Aboriginals. The CAC also asked organizations what challenges they are currently facing. Respondents mentioned that they lack capacity and resources to focus on Aboriginal communities. They also said they need to learn more about how to reach them and access available resources.

In conclusion, the surveyed organizations strongly care about Aboriginal inclusion. Some are applying for additional funding. Others mention the importance of including Aboriginal communities to get a wider range of perspectives.

Original report written by: Sport Law & Strategy Group. (2019).

Summary written by: Baribeau, C., Boyer, A. & Demers, G. Département d'éducation physique, Université Laval.
